

How do I get enabled to send messages?

In order to help prevent people using the service to send out spam, we currently require validation for new accounts before enabling full account access.

If you need your account validated to send messages, feel free to reach out via live chat during business hours CST (you can access the live chat box on any page when logged in to your online Dashboard, such as the Contact page). You can also email us at contact@mobile-text-alerts.com.
